

Time Out

New York

October 28 - November 4, 2004

Plane talk It's been more than a decade since wordsmith-conceptualist Jenny Holzer last presented a public artwork in NYC. But thanks to Creative Time, the artist returns to the great outdoors on Saturday 30, Sunday 31 and Monday 1—weather permitting—as a squadron of airplanes flies above the Hudson River, toting texts from her renowned “Truisms” series, such as ABUSE OF POWER COMES AS NO SURPRISE (pictured) and WHAT YOU FEAR OVERTAKES YOU (she's thrown in a few quotes from the likes of Abe Lincoln for good measure). If you're on the fence about casting that ballot, these soaring statements are bound to get your head out of the clouds (see Events).—Julia Westerbeke

Events

Jenny Holzer, “For New York City: Xenon Poetry Projections”

Thu 28, 515 Greenwich St at Spring St. Subway: C, E to Spring St. Fri 29, The Cooper Union, E 7th St at Third Ave. Subway: 6 to Astor Pl. From dusk until midnight. For more info, call 212-206-6674 ext 2. Holzer projects quotes from the poets Yehuda Amichai, Henri Cole and others on NYC buildings. Presented by Creative Time.

Jenny Holzer, “For New York City: Airplane Banner Truisms”

Sat 30–Mon 1 1–3pm. Dates and times are subject to change. For more info, call 212-206-6674 ext 2. Airplanes, flying from the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge up the Hudson to the George Washington Bridge, pull banners printed with Holzer's “Truisms” and quotes from visionaries such as Abraham Lincoln. Presented by Creative Time (see photo, page 81).