

Interview

May 2, 2013

CREATIVE TIME SPRING GALA 2013 HONORS JULIAN SCHNABEL

Photography PAUL BRUINOOG/PATRICKMCMULLAN.COM

New York City art organization Creative Time brought Manhattan to Williamsburg for its Spring Gala at the decades-deserted Domino Sugar Factory. This year's honoree was artist and soon-to-be new father, Julian Schnabel, for his influence and contribution to the arts.

As the sun set over the banks of the East River, guests made their way into the imposing, light-filled industrial warehouse. Schnabel, in collaboration with famed porcelain-maker Bernardau, designed the evening's interior and the limited edition dinnerware. Guests enjoyed Tuscan fare crafted by celebrity chef

CREATIVETIME

Interview

Mario Batali, as they turned their heads to hear a tribute to Schnabel by Dick Cavett and special performances by Laurie Anderson, Francis Farewell Starlite, and Loren Kramar. A successful evening, the Gala raised close to $1.1 million for Creative Time's programming initiatives.

Those in attendance included executive director of Creative Time Anne Pasternak, Urs Fischer, Giovanna Bataglia, Vladimir Restoin Roitfeld, Samantha and Aby Rosen, Waris Ahluwalia, André Balazs, Theophilus London, Cynthia Rowley, Tom Sachs, Lauren Santo Domingo, Marisa Tomei, Vito Schnabel, Mario Sorrenti, Arden Wohl, Kyle DeWoody, Lindsey Wixson, Jason Wu, Nanette Lepore, Jon Neidich, Lola Montes Schnabel, Stella Schnabel, Tony Shafrazi, Anne Slowey, Dustin Yellin, and Josh Smith.

CREATIVETIME