

VOGUE

July 2004

Art impresario, bodacious blonde, and muse to many, Yvonne Force Villareal is a mother of invention. Now, writes Eve MacSweeney, she's tackling her biggest production to date: in the bustling halls of Grand Central Terminal. Portrait by Norman Jean Roy.

force field

